

WORKERS' COMPENSATION

For companies located in the states of Ohio, Washington, North Dakota, and Wyoming, workers' compensation is provided through state-mandated providers. For all other states, employers can decide which insurance company they want to purchase their coverage from.

The insurance landscape can be quite competitive. Many carriers have filed rates that may aggressively price coverage and safety services should not be assumed. At Alliant Insurance Services, our goal is to work exclusively with those carriers that have a strong appetite to afford coverage and service to all aspects of the automotive industry.

CORE OBJECTIVES

- Carrier partners dedicated to the automotive industry
- Safety programs designed to lower the risk of work-related injuries
- In-house claims management efficiently returns injured workers back to full-time duty
- Skilled claims analysts act as employer advocates to ensure claims progress has a positive effect on experience modification factors
- Dedicated brokers familiar with your unique business operation.

HOW SERVICE MAKES A DIFFERENCE

Although coverage is regulated, pricing and services vary. The RevPro team is committed to designing and implementing a loss control program that strengthens an organization's safety culture with measured results.

Critical elements to consider when selecting a broker include:

1. Read the application that was submitted to the marketplace to determine what is being said about your company.
2. Review your safety program design, implementation, and results.
3. Evaluate your experience modification worksheet for accuracy.
4. Examine all open and closed claims to determine status and impact on your modification factor.
5. Obtain a rate classification analysis to determine which carriers have the most competitive filed rates.

Should any of these tasks be of interest, please take full advantage of the free consultation offered by the RevPro team. The difference may be measured in dollars.
